The Bulletin

Norwich, Monday, Sept. 22, 1919

THE WEATHER.

In the Atlantic and Gulf states high temperatures continue. There were general and as a rule heavy showers over the upper lake and western lower lake regions and the central valleys and lighter showers in the eastern lower lake region, the southern states and plains states and Wyoming. Elsewhere the weather was fair.

There will be showers Monday from the upper Ohio valley and lower lake region eastward, continuing Tuesday in eastern New England but followed by fair weather to the westward. It will be cooler Monday east of the Mississippi river, except near the Atlantic coast.

Winds off Atlantic coast:
 North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh south and southwest winds with showers.

Forecast.
 Southern New England: Showers Monday; Tuesday clearing in west, showers in east, cooler.

SCRIPTURAL TEACHINGS
REGARDING THE ANGELS

The beautiful, consoling and efficacious teaching of the Roman Catholic church regarding the mission of God's angels, founded upon the scriptures, and so simple that even the youngest child can comprehend it, yet of sufficient depth and mysterious interest to command the attention of the learned theologian, was the theme of Rev. Myles P. Galvin's sermon at the high mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday.

The little catechism explains that angels are pure and holy spirits, created to love and adore God, to be His messengers to men, and to aid men in attaining salvation.

Keeping close to the scriptural records, the preacher, having considered the nature of the angels, the creation of these pure spirits, the fact that some of them had rebelled through pride and that it was one of these who tempted our first parents, the creation of the angels, when he assured His disciples in the garden of Gethsemane that he would send a legion of heavenly hosts to aid him in his sufferings, St. John, too, in the Apocalypse, that vision of heaven, tells of the myriads of angels.

That the angels are God's messengers we have proof in the scriptural records of an angel visiting Abraham, Jacob, Tobias and others in the Old Testament, Zachary, the Blessed Virgin and others in the New Testament. Going back to the scriptures, the preacher pointed out that the angels are pure spirits, Christians can picture and hear the choir of the angels hosts sent to Bethlehem to bring to men the joyful tidings of the birth of a Redeemer.

It is the glorious belief of the Catholic church that these angelic spirits are deputed by God to watch over men, in a word, that each mortal has a guardian angel. The mission of the angel is prayer, watchfulness and protection.

It is a consoling thought that the guardian angel prays with man and for man, that he is ever watchful over him in spiritual and temporal dangers, and that pure as to heart and as to man's free will allows.

Conscious then of the continual presence of this prince of heaven, so holy and pure as to be admitted into God's presence, men should regard the angel with gratitude, and should have respect for his companionship, a fact which the church teaches is a sin, which God's angel hates and abhors. Then, too, they should have confidence in him, as divinely designated to guide them in ways pleasing to God, responsible, in a measure, for their souls, and anxious that those souls be returned to their Creator unblemished by the stain of sin. Next to God, the Blessed Virgin's guardian angel is most solicitous for one's salvation—nearer than any earthly friend, hence more deserving of recognition through gratitude, deference, confidence and righteous living.

Thousands A Welcome Home Celebration

On the historic Norwich Fair Grounds, where the men of a former generation encamped before they marched out to the defense of the Union, the citizens of Norwich Saturday gave a welcome home to the soldier and sailor boys of the town who served under their country's flag in the recent war. The occasion was the German empire's lust for world dominion.

Something over 500 of the more than 1600 service men of the town were on hand and a crowd estimated at 10,000 attended to do them honor. Many of the stores of the city made the afternoon a holiday for their employees and the weatherman also favored the event with a perfect afternoon, after a threatening forecast.

From end to end the big programme of entertainment arranged for the day was carried out with complete success and the ex-service men were unanimous in their expressions that the citizens and the committees in charge of the details had shown them warmth of welcome that they could never forget.

About 1 o'clock the crowd began to arrive at the Fair Grounds, where the military band in military music stand at the grandstand opened the programme promptly on time with a selection and this popular musical organization gave a concert.

Other musical features of the afternoon came later in the singing led by J. Edward Bouvier, director of community singing at Worcester, who had the whole crowd singing with him in one spirit. Mr. Bouvier led the grass in front of the seats, jumping up and down like a cheer leader at a college football game, and a group from Girls' Community Center to serve as a chorus to lead the crowd. F. C. Chantreau, a French tenor, sang his own composition, "Return Home," written for welcome home to the men, and was warmly applauded.

Upon their first arrival at the grounds the ex-service men, each of whom had a guest, repaired to the county dining room building where they received the boxes of lunch which had been prepared for them, a bottle of gingerale, ice cream, which were distributed by the refreshment committee, Joseph C. Bland, chairman.
